Hekhuis, Russell are in; Measure B uncertain

By NANCY HILLS

THE MONTEREY Peninsula Water Management District board took on a new complexion Tuesday night when voters picked candidates Dale Hekhuis and Bob Russell, easily outdistancing incumbent Billy DeBerry.

Hekhuis and Russell individually received more than twice as many votes as DeBerry, who ran third in a field of 11 candidates.

One of the seats up for grabs was water board chairman Nick Lombardo's, who decided against seeking re-election.

Hekhuis was the leader with an unofficial count of 11,196 votes for 27.6 percent of the vote, followed by Russell with 10,587 for 26.3 percent. DeBerry trailed with 4,787 votes for 11.9 percent. The total voter turnout was about 36.2 percent.

The other candidates (in order), included John Kingsely, 3,367; Jeff Grover, 2,734; Joseph Noto, 2,406; Tom May, 2,086; Pat Meharry-Meyer, 1,188; Michael Bogatirev, 615; Tim Grady, 557; and Ralph Holeton, 550.

Hekhuis and Russell participated in the petition drive to limit water meter hookups during rationing and were generally considered the primary environmental candidates. Their campaigns were closely linked and each endorsed the other.

Hekhuis in particular stressed what he called the unfair, special interest practices of the water board in the past two years. Top on his list was a water rights agreement proposed earlier this year between the water district and some private pumpers in Carmel Valley, including water district chairman Lombardo.

'I guess, first of all, that I am gratified about the success of a grassroots campaign...In the end, it turned out that dollars didn't make that much of a difference.'

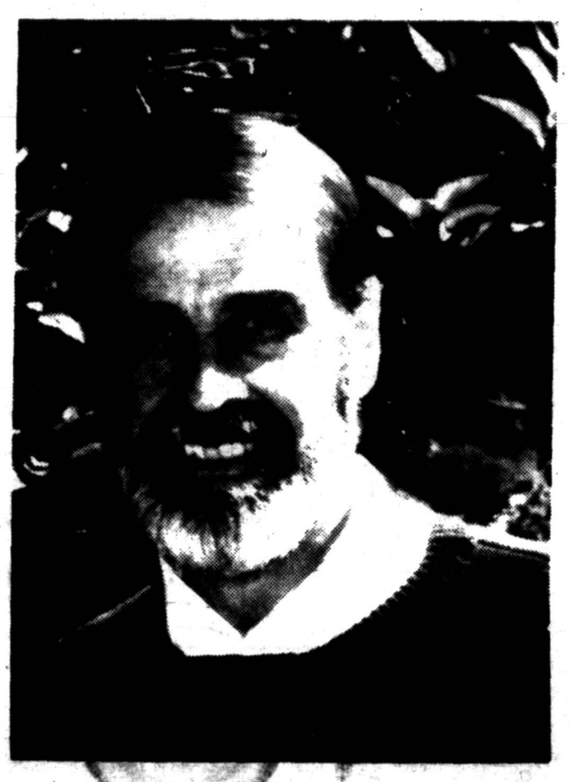
— Dale Hekhuis

DeBerry was backed by Lombardo and many developers and representatives of the tourist industry. He opposed a limitation on water meter hookups until the district goes to 40 percent rationing. His campaign spent about $26,000, about $20,000 more than Hekhuis, who spent about $6,000.

'The people have made their decision and I accept that. Apparently there were two candidates that people felt would do a better job than I would.'

— Billy DeBerry

"I guess, first of all, that I am gratified about the success of a grassroots campaign," Hekhuis said. "We had a lot of really grassroots organizations behind us — the Carmel Residents Association, the United Neighbors of Pacific Grove and the Residents Water Committee. It was satisfying to see them all come together. In the end, it turned out that dollars didn't make that much of a difference."



NEW MONTEREY Peninsula Water Management District board members: Bob Russell and Dale Hekhuis easily outdistanced nine rivals, including incumbent Billy DeBerry, to capture seats on the MPWMD board in Tuesday's election.

Russell, too, praised the grassroots movement.

"I am very, very pleased at the turnout," he said.

"The people have made their decision and I accept that," DeBerry said. "Apparently there were two candidates that people felt would do a better job than I would."

When asked if he believed spending that much money may have been a detriment, DeBerry responded "I don't know. I did it because I felt I had to because of certain reasons, but I don't want to blame anybody."

DeBerry had expressed the opinion in the past that the news media coverage of his actions and candidacy was biased.

He was particularly stung by accusations that he was Lombardo's man.

"I think for myself," he said. "I am my own man, that is very important to me."

First appointed to the board in 1984, DeBerry was elected during the 1985 election that also gave Lombardo his seat. At that time, they ran in opposing camps.

"I hope the board will keep in mind economic factors as well as environmental factors," DeBerry said. "I hope that needs of the people of Seaside and other cities in this part of the county will be taken into consideration when decisions are made."

Hekhuis had run in 1986 but came in fifth for three available seats. Voters elected Paul Davis and Jim Hughes and re-elected Dick Heuer during that election. Davis and Hughes were backed by Lombardo.

The water board, Hekhuis said, "hadn't produced any water and hadn't managed fairly the water it had. I think the drought was a test of the water board and I don't think the water board met it with no restrictions on new water connections. People couldn't understand how we can have an emergency and no moratorium on connections."

Hekhuis said he believed the issue that "ignited people was the the proposal (the water rights agreement), to grant 935 acre feet to Nick Lombardo for his golf course and hotel. I think that really got people aware of the politics of the water board."

Along with a public hearing on water meter limitations, one of the first items on his list of "things to do," Hekhuis said, was to

DESPITE AN apparent defeat of Measure B, county officials this Wednesday appeared optimistic that as-yet-uncounted absentee ballots would offer a turnaround in the results.

At press time Wednesday morning, unofficial results showed the measure, which would levy a one-half cent sales tax countywide, being defeated by a mere seven votes, or losing 50 percent to 49.9 percent.

The Monterey County Elections Department plans to have the approximately 500 absentee ballots tallied by Thursday, Nov. 9, or, at the latest, Monday, Nov. 13, according to Donna Dunn, elections officer.

County offices are closed Friday, Nov. 10, to commemorate Veteran's Day.

Second District Supervisor Barbara Shipnuck told The Pine Cone that the Oct. 17 earthquake probably had some impact on the voters opposing the measure.

State officials last week OK'd a one-quarter cent sales tax to be levied for the next 13 months, which could have forced voters to shy away from additional local taxes.

"We thought that it would be close due to the events of the last two weeks," she said. "But there are still over 500 absentee ballots to be counted.

"If they (absentee votes) follow the pattern of the early returns, which were 51 percent in favor of Measure B, there is still a possibility of it passing."

Shipnuck and the majority of the Monterey County Board of Supervisors had campaigned strongly in favor of the tax, which would be used principally for capital improvements.

If adopted, the half-cent sales tax would generate an estimated $35.5 million in extra county revenue during the 20-year life of the bill.

Measure B was tied to a recently passed state bill, which allows county supervisors to present to voters on the ballot a list of projects that will be funded if the measure is adopted.

Supervisors held several public hearings over the summer to decide how the money would be spent if the measuer was adopted.

Among projects that would be funded if the measure passes after absentee ballots are counted are: the widening of Carmel Valley Road, construction of the Prunedale/Highway 101 bypass, and library funding for the cities of Carmel, Pacific Grove, Monterey and Carmel Valley.

"We just have to wait now for the rest of the them to be counted to find out for sure," Shipnuck said.

Herro, Pinney win CUSD seats

By DAVID LELAND

INCUMBENT PAT Herro and general contractor Frank Pinney were elected to the Carmel Unified School District Board of Trustees in Tuesday's election.

Both Herro and Pinney will occupy seats with four-year terms.

Unofficial results at press time show Herro with 41 percent (4,931) of the vote; Pinney with 28.1 percent (3,374); Michael Shouff with 16.6 percent (1,989) of the vote and Pam Spagna with 14 percent (1,682), according to the Monterey Elections Department.

The CUSD board meets monthly at various locations within the district in order to set policy, review employee relations, work with monetary matters and, once annually, negotiate a contract with area teachers.

The board also serves as the guiding arm for the CUSD administration.

Herro, who has served on the board for three terms, said she believes that she is just beginning to grasp the intricacies of the volunteer position.

"I feel like I'm really at the right place now," said Herro, who works in helping patients suffering from Alzheimer's Disease and strokes. "I can use what I know. I think it takes a long time to be a full boardmember because there's so much to learn."

Herro has two children enrolled in the CUSD and her husband, Fred, is a public defender with Monterey County.

Herro said she was impressed with the field of candidates seeking seats on the board.

"I'm pleased with the caliber of candidates who ran," she said. "It's delightful to see good candidates running for school board."

Herro sees the prospect of massive fund-raising as the immediate task facing the new board.

With the failure of Measure A last March, which would have levied a parcel tax on those residing in the confines of the CUSD, capital improvements in the district are still in limbo.

"I want us to explore every option, including the parcel tax," she said. "It's a tremendous amount of money we need — you can't raise that through bake sales."

Millions of dollars alone are needed to rid the district of asbestos from its classrooms.

Herro said successful fund-raising can only

Providing reassurance

Dear Editor:

This is in reference to the letter from Howard C. Nieman, Jr., Carmel, in the Oct. 26 edition of the Carmel Pine Cone. I would like to enhance Mr. Nieman's praise of KAZU radio.

I personally was listening to a Monterey Bay station when the earthquake hit and when they returned to the air, they were playing a song that had the words "shakin' it, shakin' it, shake"! This was not my idea of radio humor, and since I am a journalism major, I was personally insulted.

I don't mean to be selfish. I understand there were a lot of people in need in Santa Cruz and in San Francisco, but I live on Fort Ord and there is a definite concentration of people from all over the U.S. We were also without power and very scared. KAZU provided reassurance that no other Monterey Bay station could provide! And believe me, we listened to them all.

In closing, if we were able to hand out medals for community caring, KAZU would be at the top of my list and at the top of the lists of my friends who relied on each other during the earthquake. Thanks KAZU!

Sad state

Dear Editor:

Our world is in a sad state of affairs when some of our young adults are so self-centered that they are unaware of the goings-on around them. This became very evident on Halloween.

While only 30 miles to the north our neighbors are living in tents and standing in food lines, these young trouble-makers were purchasing dozens and dozens of eggs to throw at law-abiding citizens' homes and cars.

A friendly reminder to these egg throwers: when you act like adults, we'll treat you as such.

Not funny

Dear Editor:

I, for one, found little humor in Bill Bates' cartoon relating to earthquake damage that appeared in the Oct. 26 issue of the Pine Cone on the editorial page.

Police story

Dear Editor:

I was born and raised in Carmel and have lived here my entire life except for a short few years after high school when I lived in Hollywood. I had a wonderful time pursuing an interesting and profitable acting and modeling career.

Well, several people called to ask me why I didn't put my collector cars in Carmel's Halloween parade Oct. 31, Carmel's once-a-year big time event. My comment was after doing the parade with Bud Allen and Kelly Trotter for seven years I felt the city could call me themselves and ask me. Instead of asking "other" people to ask me for them. People the city asked reported to me, "Ask him yourself."

The call came at 4:55 p.m. Friday, Oct. 27. The city called me and asked me if I could and would put my cars in the parade. I explained that my mother was in the hospital, I was running her gallery, Casa Dolores in the Carmel Plaza, four of the six cars were not registered and I would have to make two trips to DMV to get one-way trip permits.

The cars were in Prunedale in storage and I would have to get drivers together, buy decorations, clean and polish them, plus move several other cars to get them out. Plus make two signs for each car — all very time consuming. They told me how much last year I was missed, and that they would make the signs.

My comment was that I could probably do it because even though I will have to close the gallery for the parade, I could get the two Rolls-Royces cleaned up Sunday morning, since I don't open the gallery until noon, and even though not registered, they are stored here in Carmel

Sunday at 7 a.m. I am cleaning the first car and the police drive by three times, once stopping and backing up to tell me that my trunk is open. Several minutes later I was called to the phone, leaving my unregistered matador red Rolls Royce parked for 8 minutes unattended in front of my house up in the Carmel Woods. This is the car that made in excess of $3,000 for the Carmel Youth Center, led the parade every year for years, reopened Highway 1 after the closure in 1983, and was deemed the most photographed car in the world by CNN recently. This is the car "PT SUR" that has done more charity and fund-raising than any other car in the state of California.

During that 8 minutes I received a ticket for no registration. I quickly called the police and explained what I was doing for the city, and that it would recieve a trip permit as soon as the DMV opens in the morning. The officer told me he received no complaints but was just driving by and decided to give it a ticket. I told him that it was the fourth time the police had driven by since 7:30 a.m. The issue of the ticket was 12:30.

Monday morning I called city hall. They had already heard about the mishap with the police department and informed me that they didn't want to get involved, but they would see what they could do. I haven't heard from them since.

In January of 1988 I was called to Arizona urgently and had to leave my 1966 Continental four-door convertible parade car, with two windshields parked in front of my house. This is also a car which is used every year in the parade. It is unregistered but taken (legally) out of storage with a trip permit from DMV. The car broke down, I could not get it started. I left a note and the trip permit displayed on the dashboard, visible from looking into the vehicle.

The police came by after I had left, noticed it wasn't registered, marked it, ticketed it and then had it towed as an abandoned vehicle. The car had my initials DKR on the plates, it was parked in front of my house, plus the driver at AAA who towed the car as an abandoned vehicle told the police, "That's Dio's car parked in front of his own house."

Their orders were to tow it as an abandoned vehicle. It was impounded and when I got back it cost me an excess of $300 to get my car back.

So everyone who missed all the fun old cars of the '50s and '60s in the parade the last two years now knows why.

Tour de force

Dear Editor:

Run — do not walk to the marvellous production of St. Joan by the Staff Repertory Players. Marcia Hovick enjoys a distinguished reputation for her presentation of classical theatre. St. Joan is a tour de force.

The cast is uniformly strong with outstanding performances by Norman Stottmeister, Jason Bond, Jeff Heyer, Ron Cohen and Henry Guevara. Gail Higginbotham is a truly compelling Joan, vibrant in command, heartbreakingly vulnerable in defeat. A flawless portrayal!

Don't miss it.

Supes get tough with PB Co.; will seek penalties for damage

By PAUL WOLF

FOR A second time the Monterey County Board of Supervisors censured the Pebble Beach Co. for last month's land use violations at the golf course at Spanish Bay.

But this time, supervisors, meeting in Salinas Nov. 7, vowed to revoke the company's golf course permit if it does not "move expeditiously" to repair the environmental damage caused by those violations.

The board still plans to seek maximum fines from lawsuits initiated after the violations.

"Let's make sure for once and for all this doesn't happen in the future," said 5th District Supervisor Karin Strasser Kauffman.

'The major facts concerning this latest Pebble Beach Co. violation...illustrate (its) ultimate disregard for ethical and legal procedure.'
— Fred Wildenradt

In early October, county officials discovered that the company had:

- Loaded about 800 cubic yards of landfill into a protected riparian/wetland area north of the 14th fairway near Sunset Boulevard.
- Removed about 15,000 square feet of vegetation on the 18th fairway.
- Removed vegetation and placed fill in the environmentally sensitive habitat of the remnant dune to create new tee areas for the 3rd, 15th and 18th holes.

'The Pebble Beach Co. is no better or worse when it comes to the desecration of environment on the Monterey Peninsula.'
— Marc Del Piero

- Graded and removed vegetation in the environmentally sensitive dune habitat east of the 10th fairway.

The board asked county staff to prepare a proposal spelling out in detail allowable uses for the golf course and surrounding dunes. It will consider the proposal Dec. 12. It will also consider possible permit revocation on that date.

"We need to make it clear what can and can't be done on the golf course and the Del Monte Forest; we need some very specific language," Strasser Kauffman said.

The company's work at the golf course was done without permits, and county officials say permits would never have been granted in the first place. The work the company did violated a dune restoration and management plan that was required of the company as part of Spanish Bay resort project approvals in 1984.

The board's 5-0 motion Tuesday calls for a company-financed dune monitor to report to the county to ensure no violations in the future.

It was also apparently assumed there could be no processing of Pebble Beach Co. applications until restoration is completed in coming weeks.

Although firm in its decision, supervisors had a gentler attitude with the company than did the public.

"The Pebble Beach Co. damaged the environment knowingly and in a premeditated fashion," said Pacific Grove resident Cam Schure, her voice rising in anger.

Glen Chang read a letter from the League of Women Voters, stating it is "deeply disturbed" with the violations, calling them "only the latest example of repeated disregard for county regulations."

(The company was also reprimanded by supervisors earlier this year for doing grading work without a permit in the Del Monte Forest.)

Chang and Janice O'Brien of the Forest Committee recommended the county set forth strict environmental rules for the golf course and dune area. For one, O'Brien suggested tournament play be prohibited.

Fred Wildenradt, on behalf of the Preserve 17 Mile Drive Committee, urged immediate revocation of the golf course permit. "The major facts concerning this latest Pebble Beach Co. violation...illustrate (its) ultimate disregard for ethical and legal procedure."

Supervisor Marc Del Piero, while distressed with the company, said he's seen many more significant land abuses in his own 1st District, affecting endangered species and causing greater damage. He advised supervisors and the public to be moderate.

"The magnitude of damage (from other violations), has often been greater than with these three quarters of an acre of dune that has been damaged here," he said. "The Pebble Beach Co. is no better or worse when it comes to the desecration of environment on the Monterey Peninsula."

He said he is concerned about undue "antagonism" from the public toward the company.

Supervisors said they would consider revoking the golf course permit if the company does not show "good faith" in repairing damage. But no one thought revocation was desirable.

"The people who would be damaged by this...would be the desk clerks or the valets who are trying to make a living," said 4th District Supervisor Sam Karas.

Third District Supervisor Dusan Petrovich agreed. "By closing the golf course, who would benefit?" he asked.

Pebble Beach Co. President Tom Oliver restated his apologies, and said the company has been following county directions in restoring the damage.

He said revoking the golf course license would be a "considerable and unduly harsh" punishment for what has happened.

BIG bucks

EXAMINING A just-drafted check for $200,000 at the Carmel-by-the-Sea Red Cross chapter are chapter manager Lynette Balesteri, board chairperson Phyllis J. Crockett, and (seated), Anne Dittmer, chapter treasurer. The funds represent local donations to the Carmel chapter to aid earthquake victims. In addition, more than 400 volunteers representing the chapter have worked since Oct. 17 to help victims in Watsonville, Hollister and Santa Cruz. The check will be submitted to the national offices of the Red Cross. (Alan McEwen photo.)

City comes to 'tentative' pact to buy Hodges property

By NANCY HILLS

THE CITY of Carmel may soon own a section of the Carmel River, a chunk of wetlands and a piece of land behind the Carmel Mission complex.

Mayor Jean Grace announced Tuesday night that the city had come to a "tentative" agreement with representatives of the Hodges Trust to purchase their approximately 6.5 acres off Lasuen Drive for $1.75 million at an interest rate of 8.9 percent.

The announcement was greeted with applause from the audience at Tuesday's city council meeting.

"It is really a lovely piece of land," Grace said, adding that the city should take this opportunity to purchase one of the remaining undeveloped parcels in the area. The property adjoins the city limits and is in Monterey County.

Acquisition would give the city the opportunity to "work with the adjoining large property owners, particularly the Diocese of Monterey, the Mission Ranch, the State of California and the Carmel Sanitary District on a master plan for the area between Rio Road and the (Carmel River State Beach)," Grace said.

A trail from Mission Trail Park through the property onto the beach could be a part of that master plan, Grace said.

All neighbors of the property will be included in the discussions about its ultimate use. Suggestions have ranged from a park to satellite parking for the downtown area.

The vote in closed session, Grace said, was 4-1, with Councilmember Elinor Laiolo voting against the agreement.

"A few contingencies" must still be met before the council, acting as the Public Improvement Authority, agrees to enter into the purchase agreement. A public hearing will be conducted on the purchase at that time.

Those contingencies include a check of possible hazardous wastes on the site. The city will have "borings" taken of the soil to determine if there is any clean-up necessary. Clean-up would be the responsibility of the seller.

"There is no indication that there is hazardous waste, but we are taking the precaution," said City Administrator Doug Schmitz after the meeting.

Schmitz explained payment for the property would be through annual installments starting at $230,000 and decreasing in size over a 20-year period. The first payment would probably be in August 1990, the beginning of the next fiscal year.

Since the city will make payments on the Crocker Bank building, now the library annex, until the 1991-92 fiscal year, the first two years of payments will come from a special debt service fund of $507,000.

The council, as the Public Improvement Authority, will issue 20-year tax-exempt certificates of participation, similar to bonds, to raise cash needed to cover the cost of setting up the sale, a $200,000 downpayment and monies for improvements to the property. A portion of the annual payment will go to pay off the certificates.

Technically, the improvement authority will own the property and the city will lease it from that entity because a city cannot incur substantial debt. The improvement authority will make the payments on the bond and to the Hodges trust from the money the city pays it for the "lease."

Barney Laiolo expressed the only opposition from the audience to the purchase.

"This was done much too fast for the public to comment on it and the price is way out of line," he said.

He added that most of the land was wetlands and the city has no idea what kind of restrictions the California Department of Fish and Game and Coastal Commission could place on any potential uses.

Incumbents defeated in PBCSD election

TWO NEWCOMERS, both who have either opposed or declined to endorse the proposed incoproration of Pebble Beach, have been elected to the board governing the Pebble Beach Community Services District.

David Hendrick and Janice O'Brien ousted incumbents Norman Hansen and Donald Durant and challenger Robert Shepner in the Nov. 7 election.

Unofficial results saw Hendrick with 26.7 percent or 893 votes; O'Brien at 22.5 percent or 753 votes; Hansen with 20.2 percent or 675 votes, Durant with 15.9 percent or 531 votes; and Shepner garnering 14.5 percent or 484 votes, according to the Monterey County Elections Department.

While the PBCSD voted last May to endorse incorporation, it is still unclear whether the board will comply with an order by the Local Agency Formation Commission to prepare an environmental impact report on the issue.

The issue may be decided by voters in 1991 during a special election.

'Small' Red Cross chapter stands tall when it comes to quake aid

By NANCY HILLS

WHEN stories about aid for earthquake victims are bandied about, the Carmel Chapter of the American Red Cross stands tall.

Though considered a "small" chapter by national office standards because the largest city in its jurisdiction, Carmel, has less than 10,000 people, the organization since Oct. 18 has helped staff the tri-county area office, dished out 1,000 meals a day and provided beds for 100 to 150 people a night. And that is just part of the story.

Their list of accomplishments also include family disaster counseling, bilingual assistance and the collection and sorting of massive amounts of donated food, clothing, household goods and personal grooming items.

And all of it was done by "a 100 percent volunteer team," said Carmel Chapter Manager Lynette Balesteri.

"Virginia Bowser, volunteer disaster consultant for the Red Cross western operations, called us and said 'This little chapter has been heroic beyond the call of duty. Not enough can be said about you. (The Carmel Chapter) has been called the 'Jewel in the Crown,' " Balesteri said with pride.

The beds, meals and counseling are in the hard-hit town of Watsonville, where the Carmel chapter "adopted" a shelter.

"That means we do everything," explained Balesteri. "We register at the door, cook and serve the meals, provide counselors, bilingual volunteers, respond to inquiries and arbitrate disputes — everything."

A 24-hour job, voluteers drive from the Carmel area to Watsonville every day, she said.

After the quake, more than 440 people from the Carmel area offered their services, swelling the ranks of the approximately 250 volunteers already on file. Not all were needed, Balesteri said, but some have worked every day.

Donations from both the private and commercial sector have been wonderful, she added and includes people like Scott Hennessy, partner in Monterey Baking Co., who donates 30 to 100 loaves of bread a day and Christophe Bakery, which, in the first week, baked 600 fresh muffins every morning.

Balesteri also singled out Mary Lou Henly, owner of the building at the southwest corner of Dolores Street and Seventh Avenue, and get the allocation environmental impact report certified.

Hekhuis, Russell on water board

"It is the basis for a lot of decisions, including interim water supply projects and discussions on what to do with conserved water," he explained.

The board has made some progress on the interim water supply projects, Hekhuis said, and "I commend them for that."

"We now have four people on the board that can work together," Hekhuis added, meaning 5th District Supervisor Karin Strasser Kauffman, Heuer, Russell and himself. Strasser Kauffman and Heuer had endorsed both Russell and Hekhuis.

He added, though, "I'm not going in this with the idea of a coalition that will take over. We have several jobs to do, let's all do them. I don't want to get into the business of raking up what past boards did or didn't do."

Russell — who said he was very happy with the results — said that he believed they have a "good working group that can bring some changes."

He later added that he believed he would and could work with the other members of the board.

"I think everyone will be surprised at how well we all will work together," he said.

Top on his list, Russell said, was a public hearing on limitation of water meter connections. It would probably be after the Dec. 4 water board which will be his and Hekhuis' first meeting.

Other changes Russell would like to implement include "to separate the staff function from the policy-making function."

"We should not have the staff representing the policies of the board at speaking functions. That should be the job of the chairman.

"We need to isolate them from the political debate so they can function as a technical advisor without having to deal with the politics," he said.

Russell also is interested in a representative from the district going to the cities and county regularly to explain upcoming programs and ordinances.

"Cities in the past have reacted when they have had rules imposed on them," he said.

He believes that the board needs to have two meetings a month to deal with all the issues.

Russell said he would start to bring a grant program to pay for toilet retrofits for those who cannot afford to change their older higher water-use toilets to new low-flow fixtures.

He suggests a six-month trial period to determine if it would successful.

"A lot of people cannot afford to install the new devices," he said.

be accomplished by getting the entire community involved with the various schools — that means citizens with and without students enrolled in the district.

PINNEY, A Big Sur resident, was much more strident in his views on Measure A.

"Measure A is a piece of important business," he said. "Measure A is a pro-school issue — not a parcel tax."

He agreed, however, with Herro that it is essential to educate the community.

"We're not sure what the best tactic is on it," he said referring to the failed parcel tax. "It's our community school, not just for a small percentage of people with kids in school."

Pinney said he will carry on the style of board, in which bureaucracy runs a distant second to personal dealings.

"I see no major difference between me and other boardmembers," he said. "I will try in every way I can to look through the bureaucratic side and try to do things on a more personal level."

Pinney and his wife Kathy have two daughters at Carmel Middle School, and a son who graduated from Carmel High School in 1988.

Pine Cone publisher ends 3-year stint on commission

By NANCY HILLS

CARMEL PINE Cone publisher Bill Brown ended his three-year stint on the Carmel Planning Commission Nov. 8, a term that began in 1986 when he was appointed by then newly elected Mayor Clint Eastwood.

At the time, Brown's appointment was reported in the national news media along with the appointment of an entire new commission.

In his case, some of the reports questioned whether it was a conflict of interest for a local newspaper publisher to serve on a city commission.

Brown still holds to the view that he held at that time: a newspaper publisher is no different than any other citizen.

"A publisher is just a neighborhood guy like everyone else — just a citizen that happens to be a publisher," he said. "It gave me a better understanding of the government process. I'd recommend it for everybody."

The time spent on the commission was also a learning process that helped him understand the government better, he said.

"It was much more in-depth than I had anticipated. With the ordinance process you had to have findings to justify your position. Every vote potentially set a (legal) precedent, and those votes can come back to haunt you," he said.

Brown said he found "everyone has somewhat of a misconception about bureaucracies — that they are there because professional bureaucrats perpetuate them. That just isn't so. I have a lot of respect for the staff, for what they have to do and what they have to put up with. I thought they were very helpful to both the public and the commission."

Brown also praised his fellow commissioners.

"I have a lot of respect for the work they put into the commission and the guidance I received in understanding the complex issues. My association with them has been very rewarding," Brown said.

Brown said he believed the most significant items the commission tackled during the three years he served were:

• Changing design codes for second-story buildings in the commercial district.

"If the entire downtown area had been built up in second stories, it would have completely changed the look of the town," Brown said.

• The general plan revisions.

• Review of the residential design review codes now before the city council.

The residential design review discussions were triggered by objections to some of the homes approved by the commission in the past few years, a situation, Brown said, that has to do with the sheer number of applications.

"I feel the sheer number had a lot to do with it. We began to get so many. We've now tightened up on what we need to see to make a decision — photomontages, roping off the building site, height poles," Brown said.

"I'm a proponent of design review," he added. "I think people should be able to design their own homes as they wish, as long as it is compatible with the surrounding neighborhood. If is not compatible, it denigrates the whole neighborhood."

Brown was one of the three commissioners who recommended stricter design review rather than numerical changes to the code to control designs that are considered out of step with Carmel's character.

In the commercial district, Brown said he thinks "that zoning, the way it is structured, is a pretty fair process in this town" though it is "tough to make those decisions about commercial uses."

BILL BROWN, publisher of the Carmel Pine Cone and other publications, recently completed a three-year stint with the Carmel Planning Commission. Brown was appointed by then-mayor Clint Eastwood.

He added that be believed he had lost some advertising because of a few of his votes on the commission.

Of the major issues, the one vote he said he regrets is his vote on the transient rental ordinance which prohibits the rental of single-family homes for less than 30 days.

"I think 30 days is too long, given the type of activities we have in this town. The Bach Festival and AT&T are all three weeks long. I think that 15 days instead of 30 days is better," he said.

Carmel woman is a feline fancier, but she doesn't draw line there

By DAVID LELAND

RITA DEROCHE dosen't like to be pigeon-holed, so to speak. Sure she likes cats, but she also loves and respects other types of animals.

Be that as it may, Deroche has gained quite a reputation during the past decade as the "Cat Lady of Carmel" for her rescue work involving wild and runaway cats.

"I don't want to be called the 'Cat Lady' — I care for all animals," says Deroche from her Torres Street home, which is adorned with wooden cat carvings and various feline sculptures. "As a child I was interested in caring for animals. This is my job on earth: to look after abandoned animals."

She plunges into her work with the enthusiasm of a teenager who has just skipped school and is headed toward the beach.

Each morning, Deroche and husband Nick, who formerly owned Carmel Vacuums, set off to feed any number wild cats in the Carmel area, a job that takes almost two hours. After nightfall, the duo make the short drive to Monterey, where 11 wild cats have set up their home in a city cemetery.

"I don't want to be known as a nut," says Deroche, who was born in Belgium and has taken in 72 cats to her home in the past three years alone.

Nick, who now owns Carmel Sharpeners, invented a special trap that works just about every time in bringing the cats in from the wilds.

She doesn't keep all the cats, however — right now she only has an even dozen.

What she does do before attempting to find homes for the animals is to spay and neuter the felines — at her own expense.

"The message I want to get through is for people to spay and neuter their animals so we won't have an overpopulation," says Deroche, who has spent "thousands" of her own dollars on the task.

Mind you, none of this is easy for Deroche. Many times her husband takes over the task of feeding the animals, due to her rheumatoid arthritis.

Deroche, who takes infrequent trips to health spas in order to quiet her arthritic condition, says she could use some assistance.

"I need help," she says, referring to the daily feedings. "I have a big territory to cover, once in a while I have to go away."

DEROCHE BEGAN her work in 1979, when she suffered from depression shortly after her mother's death.

It was while visiting her brother at his Jeoris Vineyard in Cachagua, that she noticed a malnourished cat foraging in the front seat of her car where she had a can of dog food.

It turns out that the cat was mother to seven kittens — Deorche brought the entire family back to Carmel.

The word is out: people call her from as far away as North Monterey County looking to adopt cats. One couple in Prunedale has adopted 12 cats over the years from Deroche.

It seems that wild cats take to Deroche like a bee takes to honey.

Several years ago, while receiving therapy near Carson City, Nev., Deroche found eight kittens, she paid to have them spayed and neutered and then found them homes.

"Wherever I go, they just come to me," says Deroche, who still has a sprinkling of a European accent. "I can communicate with animals. Some people think I'm nuts, but they can understand me and I can understand them."

The cats that live at Deroche's home surely understand that they have a good thing going. Each one has its own chaise lounge, chair and food dish.

"I hope I win the lottery so I can open a shelter and take them all in," says Deroche, who belongs to several animal welfare organizations, including Carmel Valley-based Doris Day Foundation.

Through it all, however, Deroche insists that she has a soft spot in her heart for the animal kingdom as a whole.

"I like nature altogether," she says. "But the work I have to do now is with cats."

1990 MERCEDES-BENZ SL ROADSTERS

By Jim Johnson

Answering the Challenge

MERCEDES-BENZ has finally delivered a counterpunch to traditional arch-rival BMW.

While Mercedes had been napping, BMW introduced a string of new models. Mercedes' new 300SL and 500SL roadsters are the first counterpunches of a series. With the magnificent 750il followed by the hot-selling new 5 series, BMW would have KO'd most other contenders. Not the case. Mercedes' feet are masterfully carved in a solid ingot of steel. For those challenging their position, Mercedes put the world on notice last year with a convincing one-two sweep at Le Mans.

Before I dive into Mercedes' new roadster, let's look back into recent Teutonic engineering history. Most current U.S. media attention has been centered on the Asians' invasion of the German's luxury sedan market. Inspired by their own rivalry, Mercedes and BMW have reached new levels of innovation technology: ABS adaptive suspension, traction control, electro-hydraulic rear-wheel steering, electronic proximity warning system, advanced motor electronics, automatic stability control, and further development of all-wheel drive are examples.

Technological innovations found in Mercedes-Benz's 300SL and 500SL are a indication of what you can expect from future changes in Mercedes' lineup — including a new S class sedan.

I am going to limit my technical index to the SL's safety-related innovations. The entire press guide is 40 pages. The highlights for safety read:

- Integrated roll bar designed to deploy if a rollover accident is imminent.
- Seats with integrated emergency-tensioning seat belts.
- A sensor that warns of rollover; doors designed not to jam in severe frontal collision.
- A two-piece dashboard designed to reduce thigh-bone leading and knee injuries under frontal impact.
- Climate control with a electronic filter

MERCEDES-BENZ has produced a high-tech successor to its 560SL coupe/roadster in two versions, the six-cylinder 300SL (above), and the V8 500SL, identical except for their power trains.

that traps dust and pollen.

What the SL's lack in true sports car active response, like a Carrera 4 for example, it substitutes with overpowering stability. I mention Carrera 4 because the test route convenient to the Mercedes' introduction was the same one I drove a number of times during my travels with the Carrera.

Fish Ranch Road starts at the base of the Berkeley-Oakland foothills and winds up to the Skyline. From the top, either a right or left turn leads to a series of sweeping chicanes backdropped by vistas of San Francisco Bay.

I anticipated something special from the SL road test. It's beautiful new skin gives the perception of performance. Mercedes claims a 0-to-60 time of 8.3 for the 300. Very respectable for a 4,000-pound roadster. It's bass voice gives a pleasant starting signal.

Steering at the limit, the SL responds quickly and precisely, always transmitting the sense that the car is in control. Most impressive was a maneuver I have exercised hundreds of times on the same road. Midway up Fish Ranch is a left-right bend which enters on a positive camber and exits on a negative. Downhill braking on the crest exaggerates the front-to-rear inertia. The SL passed though without the slightest feel of weight transfer. The Carrera 4 and Audi all-wheel drive V8 were the only other street car to match the SL's control.

All told, it is friendlier than past SL's, nimbler, faster, easier to drive and as substantial.

Ergonomics are what you would expect from Mercedes design — among the best. The most significant interior inprovement is increased shoulder space.

Exterior design theme is aggressive while at the same time Mercedes strength-inspiring. Increasing the windshield rake and a flush underpan contribute to a low drag coefficient mark of 3.2.

The new SL is a good indication of what is to follow. Expect a new fender-flared V-8 powered 300 and a new 190 which includes a Cabrio version. In addition to 12-cylinder powered, expect a V10 available in the new 300 Class Sedans. A 300 Series all-wheel drive made its debut at the SL introduction. With V8, V10 or V12 power it will be even more impressive.

The SL's introductions from the standpoint of countering BMW is significant. Of timely importance, it also supports German manufacturers' position for world superiority in the areas of innovative technology depth and character.

Carmel Red Cross

the manager, Michael Mumford, for lending an empty shop on the corner to the Red Cross for storage and sorting.

In Watsonville, so much assistance has flowed into the earthquake-devastated city that storage areas are full.

"We are just sending things upon request," Balesteri said.

The Carmel chapter is saving the donated items until the people in the shelters have housing, temporary or otherwise. They will then need items for their new homes, she said.

The clothing, Balesteri said, has been bagged according to its type and will be put out on racks for people to go through, she added.

"When they get a house, we'll put the clothing on racks and, family by family, let them go through what we have. They need the dignity of looking through racks rather than digging through a bag."

Items that are still constantly needed are those that are used everyday — non-perishable food, diapers, baby food, powdered milk, toys and blankets. Tents are still needed and more volunteers, particularly skilled volunteers.

"We need nurses, licensed vocational nurses and nurses aides" explained Jean Snow at the Carmel Red Cross Chapter. "The first group of those are getting worn out."

How long the help will be needed depends upon how long it will take to get more permanent housing for the earthquake victims, Balesteri said.

"It is all dependent on that," she said.

Water board will meet on Nov. 13

WATER BOARD chairman Nick Lombardo and Director Billy DeBerry will have their last meeting next Monday.

The Monterey Peninsula Water Management District board will meet at 7 p.m. Monday, Nov. 13 in Monterey City Council Chambers.

On the agenda is the annual report on the well production by private pumpers.

Smoking, finances discussed by council

IN ADDITION to annoucing a tenative agreement for the Hodges property, the Carmel City Council heard a report from City Administrator Doug Schmitz that the revenue loss from the earthquake would in the "worst-case" about $500,000.

Worst-case means that the impact would last throughout the quarter.

Other revenues could offset that loss, Schmitz said, and it is believed that the impact from the quake will not last.

The council voted to place a selective freeze on budget items until the mid-year budget review, when it will know how much the earthquake influenced city revenues.

The first payment on the Hodges property would be in the next fiscal year, Schmitz said, and would not be affected by the revenue loss.

In other agenda items, the council voted to:

• Appoint Terry Thomas to take departing Bill Brown's position on the Carmel Planning Commission. Elinor Laiolo cast a dissenting vote, stating she believed Mayor Jean Grace had not stayed with criteria for selecting planning commissioners the mayor had outlined during the last appointment.

• Voted to grant an appeal to Harrison Comstock for a lot line adjustment that would create two building sites from one.

Neighbors of the property said they would rather see two small houses than one large one in the area.

• Scheduled a R-1 design code meeting for Dec. 14.

• Overturned a Forest and Beach Commission decision that had granted the removal of two oak trees.

• Direct staff to bring back a draft smoking-in-restaurants ordinance, an item that has generated plenty of heat.

Mayor Jean Grace, a non-smoker, and Councilmember Bob Fischer, a smoker, battled it out over whether the council should ask for smoking/non-smoking sections in restaurants in Carmel.

On an item Grace requested be put on the agenda, she asked the councilmembers if they were interested in introducing an ordinance that would require cigarette smoking and non-smoking sections in restaurants with more than 30 seats. Grace said 30 seats was a suggestions and the council could decide that issue later.

Fischer, whose coughing prompted Grace to say "Hear his cough," had an immediate reaction.

"I am tired of people like you telling me what I can and can't do and how I'm going to live," Fischer said, sounding angry enough to start smoking on the spot without the aid of a cigarette.

There are already too many laws governing people's choices, he said.

"Pretty soon there will be a law that smoking is allowable at the beach only at low tide. I think individual restaurants can decide if they want to do that on their own," he said.

"Many restaurants are reluctant to tell people not to smoke, but with the strength of an ordinance behind them, they can," Grace responded.

She was not telling anyone they can't smoke, she said, but that non-smokers have the right to a place where they can go and not inhale other's smoke.

"I think what we should do is have a public hearing where you two debate this and we sell tickets," joked Councilmember Ken White.

The art of apparel

DESIGNER APPAREL has been an art form for centuries and it is still thus.

Looking at haute couture garments and accessories can be almost as much fun as wearing them, especially those of the past that evoke periods of history in our minds. Even periods of recent history that many of us have lived through as well as those we have read so much about.

The Metropolitan Museum in New York holds fashion exhibitions regularly. We are not as fortunate locally. The costume committee of the Monterey History and Art Association headed by Betty Herman is the only group displaying clothing.

A few years ago they held an exhibit in the Kelly Gallery of Fabulous '50s garments and currently they are showing historical eveningwear billed as "Elegant Evenings" in the Estrada Adobe through Nov. 12 (10-4 daily).

Each gown is brought to life by a striking setting arranged by Richard Summerscales Antiques and Jerry Welling. With mannequin hairstyles by Viki Zentner and Nancy Venn of Helga Beauty Salon.

There is only one thing lacking. Space. Adequate space is a necessary ingredient of any display meant for viewing. Perhaps a better area would be the Work Gallery of the MP Museum of Art with the figures backed by fine paintings — giving a more realistic life-sized diorama.

The fine beading work, the attention to hand details and the masterful artistic designs set the imagination afire with ideas and questions. Where was this gown worn the first time? What was the occasion? Did the beauty of the gown help change the course of history? How many times did some exotic lady slip into this gown with anticipation of a grand evening out in society? What jewels encircled the neck, wrists and fingers. How would I look in this gown today?

Fashions follow cycles, as you know. The glitter and lace in vogue today were not invented just for the 1980s. This is realized while viewing a stunner from 1878 with lace medallions (including the bustle), covered with shimmering jet beads. Neither were the popular strapless dresses we see around on elegant MP evenings. They were also the rage in the 1940s.

The weighty rhinestones on the ivory satin gown donated by Mrs. Fred Staneley belonged to her mother-in-law, Mrs. Carlos Shelton (Susuan) Stanley. She wore it to social functions in the glamorous Old Del Monte Hotel where her husband was manager (and son Fred grew up.)

Coral velvet to enwrap a flapper during the roarin' '20s belonged to Susan Resendez's great aunt. Mrs. James Boyd brought an off-white chiffon gown with green leaf motif that was purchased in Australia for the inauguration of the Duke of Gloucester. The gown is still a reality but the inauguration never took place because of the outbreak of WWII.

The committee members dubbed a black/white beaded gown "The Erte" although it isn't. Erte came to mind because in the year 1914 (although Erte, now 97, was working), dress trains were cut to a point. Jeanne Graham donated the gown and the fan with it was given by Mrs. Sechels.

A case is filled with elaborate fans and fancy ladies dress slippers. Capes and accessories are found in other areas.

Miracle workers (ladies on the Costume Committee), assisting the devoted Betty Herman are Beryl Beemer, Sally Brandt, Virginia Land, Jane McCune, Nancy Stone, and Laning Thompson. While they are grateful to the many donors, these ladies literally worked in a closet. A closet may be apropos, but it is also asphyxiating. There will be no room for them in the Stanton Center. Pity.

To bring one's knowledge of current eveningwear up to date, all that was necessary was to make the short trip from the Estrada Adobe over to the Monterey Plaza Hotel Saturday night for the popular "A Tasty Affair" given by KAZU radio.

Guests arrived by the scores in the latest after-dark fashions. This annual event brings out more of the younger set than any other I know about.

Wineries (30) came forth with beverages, food purveyors (20) brought tasty tidbits for everyone. Musicians: Peter Meuse, David Michaels, Robert McNamara, Amy Krupski, Robin Keller and Bill Alison Trio filled the air with music in every room opened at the Plaza.

All around, A Tasty Affair was a community effort solidly behind the public radio station in Pacific Grove. Chairperson Paulette Lynch (KAZU staffer), was assisted by 10 capable committee members including my boss, Carmel Pine Cone/-PG Monarch editor Mac McDonald, who serves as a board member as well.

Wine (both alcoholic and non-alcoholic), flowed freely into commemorative glasses. The food was delicious and the dessert room popular. The music was soothing to sippers and nibblers as they stored up energy to rock their bodies on the dance floor to the music Terry Hanck & the Soul Rockers.

As we design our Thanksgiving menu for our families, we are aware that Christmas is not far away. Here are a number of reminders that holiday shopping may be done early.

Christmas-By-The-Bay Bazaar returns to the Del Monte Shopping Center with a preview Nov. 17 from 5-8 p.m.; opening Saturday 10-5 and Sunday noon-5. Shopping here offers an opportunity to support 31 local non-for-profit organizations that bring handmade gifts, decorations food and arts for your selection.

ART ASSOCIATION costume chairperson Betty Herman (left), and assistant Laning Thompson admired a 1930s dress that was worn by Pauline Stanley's mother-in-law at the Old Del Monte Hotel.

KIP HUDSON was fascinated by a gown from the '40s that was donated by Mrs. James Boyd for collection now on display at Estrada Adobe.

That same weekend Friends of Hospice holds Hospice Christmas Fair (free admission), 10-4 at San Carlos Cathedral Hall. Continuous entertainment, breakfast, lunch, beverages while shopping for collectibles, children's items, produce (great for Thanksgiving), plants, boutique items and art by the artisans of Soledad. Investment tickets ($5 each), offer: a week in a Maui condo, weekend in San Fran, yachting trips, golf and tennis packages, and if you buy a full book you get a turkey free (to go with that fresh produce for the next big holiday).

Friday, the first day of December the Blind & Visually Impaired Center of Monterey County welcomes you to its annual fund-raiser, Christmas Country Store Night, 4-8 p.m. at 225 Laurel Ave., Pacific Grove.

They will have for sale ceramics, handcrafted items, baked goods and a silent auction. Wine and hors d'oeuvres will be served at 5 p.m. and all proceeds help provide vital services to the blind and visually impaired of the county free of charge. All three of these fairs are run by non-profit organizations.

As we go about buying gifts for our loved one we should make an effort to see that no little kiddies go without Christmas toys. The Monterey Plaza is doing its part. The Plaza Toy Drive begins Dec. 1st with a tree-lighting ceremony in the lobby, 4:30 to 6:30. Entertainment and refreshments await those who bring toys for children (infants through 15 years). The drive continues until Dec. 22, when the gifts will be distributed by Santa and his elves to more than 150 children selected by the Family Resource Center. Co-sponsors are KOCN Radio, Monterey Jaycees and Pacific Western Bank.

Just a word to the wise. You may miss the "All aboard" call for Friends of MIIS Orient Express Ball Nov. 18 unless you reserve immediately. Not only will the Sheraton Ballroom be turned into an exotic train station, but the auction items are something to get excited about.

Dee Robertson phoned Orient Express owners James and Shirley Sherwood in London with Shirley saying, "Why of course you must have tickets on the Orient Express." You can bid for a trip on the real Orient Express train from Paris to Venice with UTA airline tickets to transport you to Paris and back.

If you prefer a cruise to the train of kings then go for the luxurious Seabourn Cruise Line trip from Venice along the Dalmation Coast, the Greek Islands, and the Italian Coast to Nice aboard the newly christened Seabourn Spirit. Or, if the California Central Coast suits you fine, a champagne brunch on Point 16 donated by the Fred Farrs and the Sam Farrs will interest you.

Hotel accommodations from Vancouver to Stonepine to Ventana await the highest bidder, along with an intensive summer language program at MIIS.

Also going aboard the train on the 18th will be Ambassador Philip C. Habib, the Honorable Anne L. Armstrong and a generous dozen and a half consuls general adding glamor and diplomacy.

I don't know how long it will be before the Monterey Peninsula inaugurates its first debutante ball. If you have daughter the proper age, you don't have to hold your breath for that time to arrive. This may be the answer for you.

The traditional 69th Debutante Assembly and New Year's Ball is set for Jan. 1, 1990 in New York. You and your daughter may join people from all over the country (and Europe), and become part of social history amidst the turn-of-the-century splendor of the Plaza Hotel. The Grand Ballroom will become a magical winter wonderland of twinkling lights and garlands of silver foliage with pink linen, pink flowers and candelabras on each table. Following the reception and Grand March, a dinner will be given in their honor with dancing to the Lester Lanin Orchestra for an evening never to be forgotten.

If you prefer something more continental, you may take your daughter to the Ball des Rosenkavaliers next June at the Magnificent Palais Schwarzenberg in Vienna with a reception at the U.S. Embassy residence. Spend a week filled with festivities by day and by night in Vienna — the cultural crossroads of the world.

If you can stand extended excitement you may continue by going to house parties in the Principality of Monaco and the Alpes Maritimes and take a Wind Star Mediterranean Odyssey for the ultimate cruising adventure along the coast of France and Italy as you relish being spoiled. I have the contact, so let me know if you are interested in participating.

'Mud People' sell ceramics at MPC

The Mud People, advanced ceramics students at Monterey Peninsula College, will conduct their annual pottery sale Tuesday and Wednesday, Nov. 14-15, in the lower dining hall at the College Center.

Hundreds of pieces of original ceramic art, vases, dinnerware, sculpture, planters and wallhangers will be on sale from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. each day. Twenty percent of the proceeds will be donated to the art department for the purchase of materials and equipment for the ceramics program at the college.

This year's sale coincides with the MPC Art Department's Third Annual Portfolio Day, set Wednesday, Nov. 15, when representatives from California art schools visit the campus to talk with art students and community artists interested in continuing their art education.

In addition to the pottery sale, sculpture and pottery pieces will be exhibited in room A-4 in the Art Department on Nov. 15.

CARMEL RIVER WATER NEWS

By Henrietta Stern

Changing of the guard

AS YOU read this, a new Monterey Peninsula Water Management District Board is preparing to take the reins from the old.

On Nov. 7, voters elected two individuals to four-year terms. Some members may be returning, some members may be new — but they all must function together to address several important issues that have significance to us all. The purpose of today's column is to briefly review these issues, and provide an update on Water District progress on various programs.

ALLOCATION EIR

Early next year, the Final Allocation EIR will be complete. This comprehensive document will be used by the board to determine how big the "water pie" should be — that is, the maximum district-wide Cal-Am production that should be allowed in a normal year. The board will also determine the best way to "divide the pie" among the six cities, the airport district and unincorporated areas of the county within the water district. This decision could have a major impact on growth on the Monterey Peninsula as a whole, as well as individual jurisdictions. Thus, it will likely generate much controversy regardless of the outcome.

The environmental impacts of five water demand levels, ranging from 16,700 acre feet to 20,500 acre feet, and six different ways to divide the pie will be assessed. The 16,700 acre feet demand level represents the scenario where all projected conservation savings would go into drought reserve with no water for new growth. This value is 9 percent less than the normal year demand of 18,400 acre feet used in the document. The value of 20,500 acre feet represents demand if moderate growth occurs over the next 10 years. Since 1981, the District has set 20,000 acre feet as the production maximum.

LONG-TERM WATER SUPPLY PROJECT

If you have been following this column, you are probably aware that the district's primary goal is to develop a long term water supply project. A New Los Padres Dam on the Carmel River has been proposed, but several alternatives are also being analyzed in an Environmental Impact Report/Statement. Alternatives under consideration include two dams on the Carmel River, three tributary streams, desalination, the Canada Reservoir and the no-project scenario.

The Draft EIR/EIS should be ready for public review in Spring 1990. Based on the comparison of the performance and environmental benefits or impacts of each of these projects, the board will identify its overall preferred project. (It could be different than the existing proposed dam.)

INTERIM WATER SUPPLY PROJECTS

Given that development of any major water project takes years for planning, environmental reports, permits and construction, the board formed an Interim Water Supply Projects committee in August 1989. Its purpose is to identify and pursue short-term projects that could be developed in two to three years with minimal cost and permit requirements.

The committee held three public workshops in September and October to hear expert testimony on the performance, cost, timing, and environmental impacts of a wide range of projects. They included desalination, toilet retrofit programs, use of subpotable supply, reclamation, new wells, controlled burns and water salvaging. At the Dec. 4 meeting, one of the first acts of the new board will be to approve an interim water supply program — that is, which projects should be implemented in what order to provide water supply until a dam comes on line.

RATIONING

Perish the thought, but rationing could continue through next year if adequate rains do not fall this Winter. Depending on the amount of rainfall (or lack thereof), the new board may need to institute more severe rationing than now exists, or may choose to alter the existing program. Any rationing decision could be significant to many peninsula residents and businesses.

CANADA RESERVOIR

District staff are working cooperatively with Cal-Am staff and consultants regarding the proposed Canada Reservoir. We provide computer modeling services, and review Cal-Am's technical and environmental reports. The Canada Reservoir will be analyzed and compared to other alternatives in the district's Water Supply Project EIR/EIS, based on data provided by Cal-Am.

BIG JOB, BIG DECISIONS

The district board certainly works hard for its $55 per month. They must address serious issues that affect thousands of people, read and understand numerous technical documents, weigh the benefits and impacts of various solutions to problems, and make important policy decisions. All this, with the knowledge that no matter what they do, some people are going to be very unhappy. I wish them well as we head into the 1990s.

Community band schedules rehearsals

Interested musicians are invited to join the Monterey Community Band, which rehearses 7:15 to 9:30 p.m. Mondays in the Monterey High School band room.

Dick Robins conducts the band, which is sponsored by the City of Monterey Recreation and Community Services Department.

Auditions are not necessary; however, those interested must be able to read music and provide their own instrument. The band plays a variety of music, from jazz to classical. There are no registration fees involved.

For details, call 646-3866.

A CELEBRATION OF COMPASSION/EARTHQUAKE RELIEF FUND-RAISER

Response to the needs of the victims of the Oct. 17 earthquake has been almost as dramatic as the tragedy itself. Temporary Temple will honor the rush of compassion and celebrate goodwill with a live benefit performance at 5 and 8 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 12 in the Steinbeck Forum of the Monterey Conference Center.

The performance is free and open to the public. However, Temporary Temple wishes to serve not only those who have given, but those whose needs continue as well, so donations of cash and/or non-perishable supplies will be accepted and forwarded to the American Red Cross, Earthquake '89.

Temporary Temple presents two shows of modern tribal/-ethno-industrial music. With instrumentation ranging from the primitive aboriginal didjeridu to digital samples, Temporary Temple is as much a New Age Treatment Facility as it is a musical ensemble. Both performances will be held in the Steinbeck Forum on Sunday. Temporary Temple most recently performed at the Steinbeck Forum with Ballet Fantasque.

GARDEN CLUB TO SPONSOR FREE TALK ON OCEAN POLLUTION

Ocean pollution and what to do about it will be the subject of a free talk sponsored by the Carmel-by-the-Sea Garden Club at Sunset Center on Wednesday, Nov. 15, at 7:30 p.m.

The speaker will be Dr. Leighton Taylor, a prominent marine biologist and science educator and conservationist, whose consulting firm in Sausalito serves aquariums, museums and zoos.

"Even though the sea is vast, it is becoming relatively smaller in relation to the increasing number of people in the world," says Dr. Taylor. "The sources and risks of ocean pollution are both local and global."

Taylor indicates he takes a "light-hearted yet serious" approach to the problem of ocean pollution to overcome the negative efect of too much "bad news" about environmental degradation.

The public is invited to the lecture. Admission and parking are free. Parking validations will be issued at the door for those wishing to park in the adjacent lot.

Halloween madness

CARMEL WAS awash with ghosts, goblins and a Batman or two on Halloween night Oct. 31. Taking first prize at Bud's Pub's annual Halloween costume contest was a group of MIIS students who came as — get this — a kelp bed, complete with otter (above left). The popular watering hole's employees got into the act too: Kari Cowan as a '60s hippie and Janie Balesteri as a silver and black cat (left), and Jena Viollaz, Dawndrea Meenach, Roy Holman and Balesteri in a variety of guises. Meanwhile, across town Maxine Jennings greeted clown Rick Johnson (he's manager of Jacc's restaurant when he's not clowning around), at an Abalone Club Halloween party and Carmel Planning Commissioner Stephen Poohar (right), appears to have been short-sheeted by his wife, cheerleader Paula Hazdovac. GOODWILL RETURNING TO CARMEL MID VALLEY

Several disaster relief organizations have reported that donations of clothing have been overwhelming, warehouses are full, and they can handle no more donations of this type for the present. What they need is money.

So, for Mid-Valley residents who have been planning to donate clothing and household items, Goodwill's "visiting" Attended Donation Station will arrive at the Carmel Mid Valley Shopping Center on Tuesday, Nov. 14, to remain through Jan. 15. It will be open every day to receive little-used but usable donations.

The attendant will be on duty from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. and 1:30 p.m. to 5 p.m. each day to help. Donors are urged to come during attended hours, to ensure that their contributions can be safely stored in the trailer and to get the receipts that will be useful when tax time comes all too soon after the holidays.

Between mid-July and mid-September (the Goodwill Donation Station's last visit to Mid Valley), 723 donors brought loads of usable things that were then sold in Goodwill's stores. Their sale helped finance Goodwill's vocational training and job placement services to local people with disabilities.

To inquire about home pickup of items too large or heavy to bring to the Donation Station, call Goodwill at 646-8567.

GORDON PAUL SMITH TO SPEAK NOV. 15

The Gentrain Society of Monterey Peninsula College will present Gordon Paul Smith as speaker, in the Lecture Forum, at 1:15 p.m. on Wednesday, Nov. 15.

Gordon Paul Smith is a well-known speaker on the free enterprise system and the national economy. His subject for this lecture is titled "Ethics in Government." He has had vast experience in both government and the private sector, having served as California State Director of Finance in 1967-68. He now has a local company which specializes in management consulting.

Smith was vice president of Booz, Allen & Hamilton's management consulting operations in the Western United States. Through this connection he worked in an executive capacity with companies such as Golcanda Corporation of Chicago. He has played an active role in local community and civic affairs.

HOSPICE RESOURCE CENTER HONORS NATIONAL HOSPICE MONTH WITH OPEN HOUSE

The Hospice of the Central Coast Resource Center (formerly Hospice of the Monterey Peninsula Resource Center) will honor National Hospice Month and celebrate its new location with an open house the week of Nov. 13-17. The Resource Center is the community outreach and educational unit of Hospice of the Central Coast and has recently moved to 1015 Cass St., Suite #2, Monterey.

"We invite the community to stop by for tea and cookies," says Laurette Toldi, director of the center. "Come sit in front of our warm fire, look at our books and talk to our folks." The Resource Center is open to the public from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday. There is no need to make an appointment. For further information, call 649-1772.

WESTERNERS TO HEAR ABOUT COUNTY HISTORY

A program on Monterey County History is on tap at the next meeting of the Monterey County Corral of Westerners. The meeting is scheduled for Monday, Nov. 13, at St. John's Parish Hall in Monterey. The program, which is free and is open to the public, starts at 8 p.m.

Westerners is an international organization of people interested in the history of the American West. Independent chapters, or "Corrals," are found throughout the world. SENIOR LINE
By 'Les' Lesser

Impressions

PROBABLY ONE of the best kept secrets in our state is the California Senior Legislature (CSL).

You may not even be aware of the check-off item on the State Income Tax Return for the California Fund for Senior Citizens. The fund is your voluntary donation you checked off on the State Income Tax Return which provides for the CSL.

Here are a few facts about CSL. In 1980, the state Legislature requested the California Commission on Aging to develop a forum of elected representatives through which older Californians could set their legislative priorities. This resulted in the formation of the CSL in 1981.

The CSL is a non-partisan volunteer organization made up of 120 elected members, 60 years of age and older. There are 40 Senior Senators and 80 Senior Assembly members, elected by their peers. Elections are held in March of odd-numbered years through the 33 Area Agencies on Aging.

The purpose of the CSL is to provide seniors an opportunity to become acquainted with the legislative process through actual involvement and to develop a forum for the representatives to offer legislation and to set priorities.

The CSL meets annually during October in legislative sessions and conducts hearings in the actual chambers of each house. After three days of hearings that deal with over 120 bills, priorities are set as to the highest 10 state and the four highest federal legislative bills. There are several committees to hear different areas of interest.

Then, Senior Legislators find state lawmakers to author the CSL priority Senior Legislative Proposals (SLPs). Over the past eight years the CSL has shown as much as 70 percent record of having their priority proposals enacted.

In addition to the annual meeting, there are meetings held throughout the year by 11 members who are elected by their peers to a Joint Rules Committee and also, there are 10 members elected to the Legislative Committee.

It is an exciting experience to sit in the chambers and to actually do similar work to the regular Legislature. The process dosn't seem too much different. There is even similar political maneuvering to get a bill passed.

In conclusion I have learned to appreciate the duties of a legislator.

'Future of the Universe' discussed

Kai Woehler, professor at the Naval Postgraduate School, Monterey, will lecture on "The Future of the Universe." His talk is sponsored by the Monterey Institute for Research in Astronomy and Monterey Peninsula College, and will begin at 8 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 11. Admission is free.

Professor Woehler will address what can be predicted with our present knowledge, such as whether our universe is a "closed" one, in which space, time and matter must end in a fiery crunch in 60 billion years. If, however, the universe is "open," stellar systems will disperse indefinitely, leaving cold planets, black dwarf stars, neutron stars and black holes.

The talk will be presented in Lecture Forum 103 at MPC. An information reception follows the talk. For details, call 375-3220.

Meals on Wheels needs volunteers

Drivers and other volunteers are needed to deliver 200 meals daily to shut-ins and the handicapped on the peninsula for Meals on Wheels.

According to Chuck Poland, a Carmel volunteer, 200 homes are served with three meals five days a week from Carmel Valley to Marina, but 22 volunteer drivers are needed daily to deliver those meals.

"We were seven drivers short the other day," said Poland, who has been pressed into service so often that he's driving almost daily now. "It means a lot to these people. You thank your lucky stars when you leave."

Poland said there are 22 routes, three of them in the Carmel area. One route usually takes from 10:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. (including driving to and from the pick-up point in Pacific Grove).

Each shut-in is delivered a breakfast, one cold meal (usually sandwich, salad and juice), and one hot meal.

FATHER FARRELL'S WISDOM

May love reign

From the Oct. 27, 1983
Carmel Pine Cone/CV Outlook

Oh Almighty and Eternal God:

We thank Thee for our homes and we pray that you will bless all who dwell within our family circle. We are grateful for your daily gifts of food, clothing, shelter, for the warmth of mutual affection and for the ties that bind us together. May love reign in every corner of our hearts and in every room of our homes.

An expert says this: "Every man is his own ancestor and every man his own heir. We decide our own future and we inherit our own past."

Finally, an expert is a man who borrows your watch and then tells you what time it is. And he is capable of charging you a salary for being your time-keeper. Amen.

The Golden Years

By Myles Williams

During the Depression, young Gordon Parks worked as a railroad dining car waiter. His life changed when he bought a used camera and learned how to use it. From 1949 to 1968 he was a photographer for Life magazine. He also made a name as an author, composer, film director and poet. At age 76, he combined those talents to create the musical score for a ballet commemorating Martin Luther King Jr. Parks was one of 15 children raised in poverty in Fort Scott, Kansas. His parents emphasized honor, education and equality and "make something of yourself."

Watson Chosen For Honors

Paul Watson

A former restaurateur, Watson owned a succession of restaurants in Arizona and California. "I always found the Chambers because it proved profitable for my businesses," he said.

A newcomer to Monterey, Watson said joining the Chamber here was one of the first things he did. "The most important thing to me about my Chamber membership is the friends I have made along the way," he said. "I've met so many wonderful people. Besides that, I can also attribute up to 50 percent of my business to Chamber referrals."

Being single, I enjoy the social opportunities like the mixers and the special dinners and luncheons," he continued.

Watson has been actively involved in a number of committees including Small Business and Membership. This year, he chairs the Workshops and Seminars Committee.

A poet and songwriter, Watson has won several poetry awards. Watson lives with his son, Clint, in Seaside.

Paul Watson, owner and manager of P.S. I Do Windows, was recently selected to receive honors as Member of the Month. Watson's company offers full service window washing for both residential and commercial, including new construction. He offers special rates for monthly and bi-monthly accounts, but also performs one-time window washing services.

Friends of Jung hosts two events

TWO EVENTS sponsored by the Monterey Peninsula Friends of C.G. Jung are scheduled in the next few days. On Friday, Nov. 10 the Friends present a workshop based on the book The Father: Mythology and Changing Roles by Arthur D. Colman, M.D., and Libby L. Colman, Ph.D.

On Tuesday, Nov. 14 the group presents an experiential activity based on the book The Power of Your Other Hand — A Course in Channeling the Inner Wisdom of the Right Brain, by Lucia Capacchione.

Both begin at 7 p.m. at All Saints' Church, Ninth and Dolores, Carmel. The public is invited to these and all other activities of the Friends of Jung, which is an informal group of people who are sharing an enthusiasm for the seminal ideas of the Swiss physician. A modest donation is suggested to cover expenses: prior registration is also suggested but not required.

The book by Capacchione continues to help many people. Participants will be guided by the book's carefully written instructions for tapping the potential of the "other" hand. The author's own testimony in overcoming life-threatening illnesses, and the victory she won by releasing her creative energy from using her left hand forms a dramatic background for the evening's activities.

MPC Dance Concert showcases talents of students and faculty

TALENTS OF dance students, faculty members and guest artists will be featured when Monterey Peninsula College presents the MPC Fall Dance Concert Friday through Sunday, Nov. 10-12 in the college Main Stage Theater.

Performances are scheduled for 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday, Nov. 10 and 11, and at 2 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 12.

"Multiples of Jest," a light-hearted dance choreographed by Dawn Sare for six women, will open the concert. Sare is the director for the dance concert. Walter White has choreographed a large group piece in five sections performed to big band music of the '40s. Twenty dancers will perform his work. The third member of the dance department faculty, Janet Butler, will perform a tango solo. Her work also will be featured in a series of vignettes called "Excess Baggage" which explore the subject of the "emotional baggage" people carry with them.

Guest choreographers for the fall concert are Jacquie Boomer-Adams and Leslie Tryon. Boomer-Adams utilizes surrealistic images of manipulation and the juxtaposition of wealth and poverty in her dance piece, "Voice from the Light." The dance is performed to a score composed by Erik Dormody. Tyron contributes several tap dances, including a duet she will perform with Boomer-Adams, a quartet, and a large group piece, "Accentuate the Positive," set in a tent revival meeting.

Joele Swift and Ron Gates are the student choreographers. Tickets are $6 for general admission or $4 for students and seniors. Tickets are available from Center Stage Ticketing in Monterey, 646-5561, Tuesday through Saturday, or the college Box Office.

Stevenson 'birthday' celebrated with open house on Nov. 12-13

ON SUNDAY and Monday, Nov. 12 and 13, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., Robert Louis Stevenson's birthday will be celebrated with an open house and refreshments served at the Stevenson House, 530 Houston St., between Webster and Pearl streets in Monterey.

In 1981, Stevenson legally gave his November birthday to his young friend, Annie Ide, as her birthday was Christmas Day. Stevenson prepared a document which stated, in part:

"And considering that I, the said Robert Louis Stevenson, have attained an age when 0, we never mention it, and that I have not now further use for a birthday of any description; Have transferred, and do hereby transfer, to the said Annie H. Ide, all and whole my rights and privileges in the thirteenth day of November, formerly my birthday."

Annie thereafter celebrated Nov. 13 as her day and adopted the middle name of Louisa.

Each year local residents and visiting school children remember the day by celebrating with cake and beverages. Come join the California Department of Parks and Recreation, Old Monterey Preservation Society and the children in saying "Happy Unbirthday."

MUSIC CORNER

By Nathalie Plotkin

A sterling stand-in

SUNDAY IN Carmel's Sunset Center, Shura Cherkassy, a long-term veteran practitioner of the art of the piano, was a sterling choice to act as stand-in for the ailing Jorge Bolet who was to have opened this year's Keyboard Artist Series.

Though linked to the romantic pianistic style of the 19th century through his various piano teachers, Cherkassky displayed an inquiring mind and a fresh, unhidebound attitude towards his music. It is hard to accept that he has been on the concert stage since 1923.

The program opened with a gently colored, yet elegant traversal of Handel's Harmonious Blacksmith. The dynamics were delicately shaded and the pedaling was most judicious, making this a fine 18th century miniature in good Baroque style.

Cherkassky chose the rarely programmed (these days anyway) Sonata no.4 in E Minor by von Weber. It is a period piece whose best moments come whenever an operatic tune surfaces, but this didn't happen often enough. Though the playing was fluent and the pianist is a master of musical and tonal contrasts, the rambling character of the piece resisted his best performance efforts to bring it to life.

On the other hand, in an unfair juxtaposition of programming, this was followed by the magnificent music of the Sonata no. 2 in B Flat Minor op. 35 by Chopin, in a superior rendition. As the most familiar of the three sonatas, it demands an interpreter of mature sensibilities and great musical stature. The artist began rather modestly, but then made the instrument sing lyrically in the second theme. He proceeded to highlight the drama and diversity of the music, bringing excitement and conviction to the glittering conclusion of the movement.

The Scherzo began with blistering attacks and giant fortes. Later, in an opposing vein, the Trio was songful and gently elegant. The waltzlike character was poetically conveyed and seemed to cast a soothing spell over the reprise of the Scherzo.

The Funeral March begin with beautifully voiced noble clarity and fine dynamic weighting. The second theme was brought out with etched pianissimi. Conception, taste and execution all meshed as the majestically massive musical procession passed and faded into the distance. The parallel octaves of the Finale were expertly played. They swirled and whirled, always under close technical control. There was nothing old fashioned about this performance.

Displaying his multi-faceted musical abilities and interests, Cherkassky came back after the intermission to prove that although he is among the last of the great romantic pianists, he can meet the different challenges that 20th century music poses with ease. The Piano Sonata Op. 1 by Alban Berg, a work which is, a classic of its genre, was written in 1908 while Berg was studying composition with Schoenberg. Filled with post-Wagnerian chromaticisms, it still has its roots in romantc harmony and Cherkassky made it sound atmospheric and moody as he traced his way through it quasi-improvisational meanderings. He built a wordless drama as the music arched up high and then ebbed. It was an intellectural rather than an emotional conception.

Stockhausen's Klavierstueck IX written in 1967, begins with the same dissonant chord being sounded 227 times within short patterns of dynamic changes. It is an impish work, calling for a pianist with a sense of humor and exact control of keys and pedals and Cherkassky put it over masterfully and with absolute accuracy.

As a sort of programmed encore, an arrangement of the Strauss Blue Danube Waltz was a fine splash of pianistic fireworks. There was incredibly smooth floods of notes rippling like water. There also were incredible feats of pianistic derring-do and in all, it was an extravagant, overblown and highly enjoyable virtuoso conclusion to the concert.

The real encores were the Barcarolle op. 10, no. 3 by Serge Rachmaninov and a Polka by his father Wassily Rachmaninov.

Cole-Whittaker to sign books at Thunderbird

Author and metaphysical instructor Terry Cole-Whittaker will conduct a question and answer session and sign her new book from 5:30 to 7 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 9, in the Thunderbird Bookshop. Cole-Whittaker's fourth book, Love and Power in a World Without Limits, emphasizes the resurgence of the feminine energy as vital to the balance and harmony within individuals and for world peace.

She says, "The purpose of the book is to share a path out of the spiritual dark ages for womankind and humanity, into the light of the glorious adventure of equality and beyond, into the world of Mastery...To be a Master is to face, be responsible for, and to overcome one's problems, challenges, and self-imposed limitations."

"I have found that my greatest challenges have taught me my greatest lessons, and, in the overcoming of these, I have become wiser and stronger in more loving and understanding ways."

Cole-Whittaker is a New York Times best-selling author. She wrote What You Think of Me Is None of My Business, The Inner Path from Where You Are to Where You Want to Be, and How to Have More in a Have-Not World.

Saint Joan

The Staff Players Repertory Company has opened its 1989-90 season with George Bernard Shaw's St. Joan.

Moved by voices, Joan of Arc secured armor and troops, becoming a leader of the French in driving the English claimants from France. She was adored and followed by the soldiers and citizens of France, and managed to have the cowardly Dauphin crowned in Rheims cathedral.

Later the French leaders raised no hand to rescue the kidnapped Joan, and she was burned in Rouen square in 1431 as a witch and a sorceress.

Shaw used actual trial records to shape this portrait of a maverick.

Marcia Gambrell Hovick directs St. Joan, which will be staged at 8 p.m. Thursdays through Saturdays and 2 p.m. Sundays through Nov. 18. The Indoor Forest Theater is at Mountain View and Santa Rita in Carmel. For reservations, call the Staff Players Repertory Company, 624-1531; or Center Stage Ticketing, 649-5561.

JAZZ TIDES

By John Detro

Thomas

THE CULTURAL classification Ace Jazz Buff (AJB) has been employed herein from time to time. It cites particularly ardent supporters of the music and surfaces again today because AJB Thomas McComb reports a cold bind and battle with the federal bureaucracy.

No joke. The 27-year-old Thomas, you see, has cerebral palsy plus degenerative arthritis. For the past decade, he notes, Social Security has designated him fully disabled. It may be a classic computer mixup, but he now faces total withholding of $110 per month from his SSI and SSA checks.

For Thomas, walking down any street in any weather represents real labor. He's thin and Irish and quite witty and I hadn't seen him around. A mutual friend passed word that he was jammed up — truly. When we finally met over coffees a few days ago, Thomas was paler than ever and damn near weeping. "If they do this, I don't know how I'll survive."

Background. Thomas wanted to join the work force — "I've tried. My goal was: contribute something and not take money away from other disabled people." In September of 1984, an operation at Stanford implanted a neurological pacemaker that provided more brain stimulation. Money for the $20,000 procedure, McComb recalls, came from peninsula-wide public fundraisers. "We even had letters from the East Coast and Pacific Northwest. One little girl sent me her week's allowance."

Thomas ran computers for a few years until "the arthritis got worse and worse." He emphasizes that he "always reported all earnings to Social Security." As he tells the rest:

Last month, he got a letter from Social Security saying he'd been underpaid since January of 1987. The letter said he'd get a makeup check of more than $1,300 during November.

Two days later, he got another letter saying that he'd been *over*paid — Social Security would hold back the big check and monthly bucks so that $27,000 could be made up. Thus the frightening potential loss of $110 per month.

No wonder he hadn't come out and about very much. "I've been unable to work since May," Thomas said. "I freaked and was put into the hospital and observed for one day. Right now I feel as if the system will make it impossible for me. Why can't I simply live my life?"

Then: "I followed every rule. If I really was overpaid, it's their error. Why should I be punished — especially now that I can't seek jobs?"

He has asked Congressman Leon Panetta for an appointment. The influential lawmaker was in Washington, McComb said. Thomas will be told when a face-to-face meeting on home ground becomes possible.

An appeal has been filed with Social Security's Carmel office. When I phoned there, the call was rolled over to the Los Angeles Information Center. I spoke with a man named Carradine — "we don't give our first names" — who said the appeal review would take 60-90 days.

"Your friend will be notified of our decision," Carradine added. "Benefits normally don't stop during the review period."

Thomas McComb: "I did my best and never played games with those people. I really tried. I don't know—".

Perhaps Congressman Panetta will remind the administrators and computer jockeys that there are real, live people out here.

LOVERS OF high-level Brazilian jazz have a treat coming early next month (12/7). Monterey Bay Club booker Teri Waros says fetching vocalist Claudia Gomez will delight the room that evening. Behind Claudia on the occasion: players from Marcos Silva's Intersection.

One perceives the fine hand of Ken Hahn, Teri's on-air colleague at KRML Jazz Radio. He's a one-man lobby for regional Brazilian bands. "Right," Miss Waros chuckles. "Ken had his say about all this." Modest cover charge will maintain. More later.

Pianist Biff Smith always brings rich harmonics and bright wit to good tunes. When he welcomed November at Monterey Bay Club, Smith added a boppish toughness that evoked Detroit School workmen like Barry Harris and Kirk Lightsey.

Asked about that extra edge, Biff glanced at trio mates Terry Miller (electric bass) and Bob Blankenship (drums). "I've always loved hard bop. It has always been there — and sometimes it emerges. I guess these guys bring out this side of what I do."

Biff's book features Bill Evans, Monk, Rodgers and Hart, Smith originals. Wonderful stuff. Bob's brushwork should be heard by student percussionists — and Terry indeed shall begin teaching bass at Monterey Peninsula College when classes crank up early next year. (I think I'll register. Point: learn how the highly creative pro puts his thoughts about the music into words.)

The three used space beautifully. They gave all-important melody plenty of breathing room. And they swung all gig long.

Others at the local venue: guitarist Larry Scala with Smith Dobson at the piano (11/9) — Ken Arcanti blues crew (11/10-11) — Bob Phillips and Terry Miller (11/12) — Don Pendergrass unit (11/13) — Jack and Ed Show (11/14) — pianist Jan Deneau (11/15) — Smith Dobson and vocalist spouse Gail (11/16).

• Monster date coming up at Kuumbwa Jazz Center in Santa Cruz on Monday night (11/13) — Max Roach Double Quartet. Shows at 7:30 and 9:30; $15 per; Center Stage Ticketing.

The ever-brilliant Max's basic group brings forth tenorman Odean Pope, Cecil Bridgewater on trumpet, Tyrone Brown (bass), Roach himself at the golden tubs. These talents meet the Uptown String Quartet — Diane Monroe (first violin), Lesa Terry (second violin), Maxine Roach (viola), Eileen Folson (cello). Maxine is Max's daughter; Lesa's the niece of Clark Terry.

The whole gang has recorded two albums for Soul Note Records. Critics characterize these as bold and swinging initiatives.

Kuumbwa's current membership drive asks post-earthquake help. Additional details next time.

Art society to meet Nov. 14

The Oriental Art Society of the Monterey Peninsula will meet in the Crossroads Room at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 14.

Patrick Maveety, curator of the Oriental Collections in the Stanford University Museum of Art, will present an illustrated lecture on the 17th Century Stoneware kilns of Japan. The kilns were founded by Korean potters brought to Kyushu and southern Honshu by the returning military forces of Hideyoshi Toyotomi.

Maveety is a longtime friend of the society who has given the members many talks based on his travels and studies throughout the Orient. He will specifically discuss the kilns of Karatsu, Agano, Yatsushiro, Takatori, Satsuma and Hagi.

There will be no meeting of the society in December. The annual business and dinner meeting will be held the evening of Jan. 9, 1990.

Kindness a keynote at Jazz Relief benefit

By JOHN DETRO

KINDNESS WAS a keynote at the Monterey Sheraton Ballroom on Sunday Afternoon (11/5). Volunteer musicians staged Jazz Relief, raising funds for Santa Cruz and Watsonville earthquake victims.

Event co-producers Eric Tonn and Ed Graham said all monies taken at the door would go to Red Cross coffers. Dollar total will be reported next week, Eric added.

Tables were about half full by the time this writer left at six o'clock. The dance floor got lots of use. A beautiful blonde name Ariel Dowber stole hearts as she twirled brightly and kept the beat. (Ariel's 2: her mother sat nearby and her father played trombone in Monterey Peninsula Jazz Orchestra.)

Also on the bill: Kenny Stahl's group, pianists Andrew Fielding and Chris Calabrese, Roger Eddy unit, Ed Graham Band with vocalist Bill Allison, Papa Jake and Abalone Stompers. The hotel donated that space; McCune Sound provided a full system free of charge; Steve and Marilyn Nergord of Mission Ranch paid for advertising.

"Sorry, but there wasn't much time to get out advance word," Tonn said. "Something needed to be done, and talented individuals were willing. All very quick."

Hotel. The latter spot offers fine guitarist Jeff Linsky (Friday and Saturday nights, Lobby Lounge).

• Yoshi's on the Oakland/Berkeley line announces the Gary Burton Quintet (11/14-18). This includes tenorman Don Paul McCaslin, who graduated from Aptos High and came up through the Monterey Jazz Festival student system.

• Ann Dyer handles public info for the jazz rooms called Kimball's and Kimball's East. She writes: "We did not suffer structural damage from the quake. Business as usual. Ernestine Anderson found herself on the Bay Bridge at the moment of collapse. She was a bit rattled, but safe and able to perform (at Kimball's)...."

• Sunday Night Special over KUSP Radio (88.9FM) — The Pontiacs. Blues cookers were taped in performance at O.T.'s this August. The two-hour show starts at nine o'clock (11/12).

MIXED METAPHOR: The Big Apple was a piece of cake for homegrown vocalist Scotty Wright. Today he has a good shot at hosting a jazz series on one of the national cable TV nets.

A full report on the man's New York stay was provided by manager Tup Lohse.

She revealed the television show will be entitled JazzTimes with Ira Sabin and Tup co-producing. Ira's publisher of the national journal carrying that same name.

"We had a meeting with the distributors back there," Miss Lohse said. "They'll sell the format in the national cable market. We'll shoot the pilot early next year — January, February — so they'll have product. These are the same people that distribute the David Sanborn television program."

It'll be an hour-long weekly show originating out of New Orleans, Tup continued. "Scotty's the host, of course. Jazz news and lots of music. Performance footage. We're off the ground — I'll furnish updates as soon as possible."

Wright also did a one-nighter at Birdland. Behind him was a killer trio: pianist Mulgrew Miller, Smitty Smith on drums, bassist Ray Drummond (Scotty's old pal from Monterey Peninsula school years and dues days). Tup: "We had a full house. Dynamite evening."

There came some preliminary shooting on the film biography Bojangles. Scotty's playing great entertainer Bill Robinson for Director Clyde Ware of Ashby Productions.

The scene was Robinson's 61st birthday dance down Broadway. Scotty's feet carried him many blocks — in the rain — as those cameras rolled. "Clyde said Scotty gets better and better. And he asked me to co-produce the movie with him. I'll do so." Other filming will start in Los Angeles come February or March.

A press conference about Bojangles occurred at the Time-Life Building. Wright also appeared on Joe Franklin's TV show and sang the national anthem before a Madison Square Garden hockey game.

As if all that weren't enough, Scotty's first film for Clyde Ware got a Christmastime release date. The Western entitled Bad Jim stars James Brolin, Richard Roundtree, John Clark Gable. Wright plays a saloon pianist — and two of his own tunes survived the final edit.

NEW LISTING

Peaches and Cream

That's the name at the gate of this charming small Carmel cottage. To carry on the metaphor, it is in apple pie order. It's nestled under tall Monterey pines at the N.W. corner of 3rd and Lobos, a serene and quiet neighborhood, with other small houses surrounding it at a respectful distance.

The exterior is wide horizontal siding, freshly painted in cream. The shutters are peach-colored, each decorated with a carved heart. A white picket fence surrounds the lot, and neat stone paths wander about among the flower beds.

The entrance is covered by a small canopy, and inside you step into a vaulted living room. The walls are vertical board and batten, the ceiling is planked, a stylish mantel is centered on the west wall, and all is painted off-white.

An "L" leads left to the dining area. The kitchen is beside this and opens through a pass-thru to the living room. All appliances are new: JennAir range, microwave, Whirlpool dishwasher. All counter tops are butcher block, and a skylight brightens the room.

Behind this is a central hall, off which stem two good-sized bedrooms and two well-appointed baths, one with a large glassed-in shower.

A delightful surprise is the cozy studio and one-car garage at the rear of the lot. The picket fence separates house and studio, and a stone patio offers generous space for outdoor living. The exterior here is board and batten, up and down, painted cream, of course.

Walls in the kitchen, bedrooms and baths are papered in attractive designs, and all the floors are random width oak planking. This little house has been lovingly remodeled and is like brand new.

If you're a little tired of wrestling with a big house, or if you're just starting out, this is a perfect answer.
